For companies to survive in the global business arena, they must incorporate the latest technological developments into their business model.

Document management and project control strategies should be designed to foster communication, increase data reliability, improve data security and facilitate data access.

Falcon is a unified, consistent and comprehensive group of products that will provide real time information to all levels of management in all departments and at all locations.

Falcon<sub>CM</sub>

Falcon CM is a multi-user application designed for the construction manager or contractor. It tracks and manages construction project information and contracts, produces transmittals, schedules, purchase orders, meeting minutes and agendas and generates logs and reports. It provides company-wide accessibility to project information databases, improving performance, execution and reporting.

Falcon<sub>PM</sub>

Falcon PM is specifically designed for the project architect or manager. In addition to many of the same features in Falcon CM, this module tracks project hours and billing and interfaces with the firm's financial system.

Falcon<sub>OM</sub>

Falcon OM tracks projects from the owner's perspective focusing on all high level activities and responsibilities of the project team including architect, construction manager, other key consultants and project executives. The system interfaces with the owners financial system and monitors actual costs versus projections, as well as automatically creating monthly report presentation formats.

Falcon<sub>LM</sub>

Falcon LM is a system designed to track and organize lease information. It serves as a valuable tool - providing lease specifics relating to costs, expiration dates, and options. It enables corporate real estate and facility professionals to access the real time information essential to safeguard the company's property investments.

Falcon<sub>CD</sub>

Falcon CD is a subscription service that provides project team members such as sub contractors, engineers, and other consultants with on line access to project information. As a web-based application it facilitates the communication of project information such as requests for information, change orders, and schedule changes. Interfaces are also created for vendors to supply hard copy documentation to the team as well as e-mail notification of newly posted documentation.
